BONUS THROTTLED

Bonus legislation has been throttled at this session of Congress by edict of the Democratic majority.

Advocates of immediate payment of the bonus planned to attach their proposal in amendment form to the Roosevelt "soak-the-thrift" tax bill, but Joe Robinson and his steering committee willed otherwise.

MEANINGLESS SOP

A sop was thrown to bonus advocates through a promise to give a day next January in which to bring up a bonus bill. In other words the big-hearted Joe and his cohorts in reality promised nothing of any value to rid themselves of a troublesome and embarrassing situation.

Veterans should not be greatly disappointed after the setbacks they have already received in their fight for their just dues. The President has set his face against them and refused to yield to public sentiment when Congress was deluged with importunities to pay these men who fought and bled for us. There is no indication that he will have a change of heart next January or any other time, but the fight will suit him on and the veterans will ultimately triumph.

When the President vetoed the bonus bill I know of one life-long Democratic adherent of the feminine persuasion who was highly incensed. Formerly a resident of Richmond, she moved to a Southern State, where she still follows with the same degree of interest as of yore the valiant struggle for justice being waged

Eastern Area Is Hard Hit By Big Flood

CANTON, Ohio, Aug. 7.—UP—Thousands were homeless, four were known dead, several were missing and more than $2,000,000 damage had been wrought in Eastern Ohio. Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia tonight as the worst flood in a quarter century spread over an increasingly larger area.

U. S. Meteorologist R. P. Powell at Parkersburg, West Va., predicted the Ohio river would reach its highest August stage since 1888. Citizens of Massillon, a few miles east of here, were preparing to evacuate for fear the 30-year old reservoir dam would go out under the terrific pressure caused by the swollen waters and immerse the city.

Steve Uzonoff, seven-year-old Mansfield boy, was drowned when he fell off the back of a companion who was carrying him along the edge of a swollen creek.

At Coshocton, where 300 families were forced from their homes by flood waters, Nicholas Bergovic, a farmer, was drowned.

Oron Wilcox, Rochester farmer, was killed by lightning. Mrs. Harry Bartram died of shock after lightning struck a barn near Signett.

State Employees Shakeup Aug. 20

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 7.—UP—There will be no wholesale changes of State employees before August 20, when all appointees who have worked for the State steadily since June 20, 1934, will be blanketed into civil service, Governor Frank P. Merriam indicated today.

The statement quieted fears of many State workers that sweeping changes were in prospect.

Governor Merriam has no authority over the State Board of Equalization, but members of the board also have indicated that few changes are planned.

Mystery Man

Brentwood Man Is Killed By Hit-Run Auto

BRENTWOOD, Aug. 7.—Sheriff's officers tonight were conducting an investigation into the hit-run death of I. Matsumi, 50-year old Brentwood Japanese whose body was found lying on the highway near here shortly before 8:30 P. M.

Deputy Sheriff Al Davies, who was sent to the scene, discovered a broken automobile headlight lying near the body. By patching the shattered glass together it was discovered that it was from the headlight of a Ford V-8.

As a result, officers are looking for a Ford automobile with one lens missing.

The body was found lying in the middle of the highway by John Lindsey, of Martinez, who notified the sheriff's office.

Pay Raises For County Workers Denied

SALARY RATE IS SAME AS LAST YEAR

MARTINEZ, Aug. 7.—The hopes of county officials and employees who had requested and envisioned an increase in their ability to end, went swimming today when the Board of Supervisors adopted the county salary ordinance.

Employees had petitioned for a 12 1/2 per cent raise to bring their salaries back to their former level, but the supervisors, in their determination to keep the tax rate and the tax bill down, could not see it that way. As a result the salaries and wages for officials and employees will be the same as during the past fiscal year, as follows:

COUNTY CLERK'S OFFICE—County Clerk $4375 per annum; chief deputy $197 per month; two deputy deputies $175 per month; 2 of five deputies $132 per month each; one office deputy at $120 per month and one office deputy at $125 per month, extra help election years for compiling registrations, 75 cents per name, an allowance of 10 cents per name registration year.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE—Sheriff salary $5000 per annum; under-sheriff $219 per month; one deputy $197 per month; two deputies at $175 per month; one deputy sheriff for criminal cases, $175 per month; day jailer, $154 per month; night jailer $154 per month; two (Continued on Page 5)

Miss Pearman To Lead 1936 Women's Drive

MARTINEZ, Aug. 7.—The Democratic Central Committee tonight named Miss Emma Pearman, of Richmond, as women's campaign manager for Contra Costa county for the coming 1936 election.

Miss Pearman, who is a Richmond realtor, has been active in Democratic affairs for many years. She is an officer of a Richmond Democratic women's club.

The committee at its session decided to hold a dance September 14 at Crockett and a dinner at Martinez on October 29.

The next meeting of the committee will be held September 4. Present from Richmond were Miss Pearman, Robert Adams, M. M. Dowling, Dan Noziglia and Harry Burt.

Charges Filed Against Driver

A technical charge of manslaughter was filed against John Willis, 42, of Albany, yesterday as the result of an automobile accident last Sunday evening at McBryde and San Pablo avenues in which Frank J. Duarte, 70, of Danville was killed.

The complaint was signed by F. A. Marshall, of Walnut Creek, nephew of the deceased.

The charges were filed yesterday morning after a coroner's jury on Tuesday evening had failed to fix any blame for the crash.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM R. McNALLY, Jr., (the former Geneva Sandidge) have returned from their honeymoon and are making their home at the El Carquinez apartment.

Sera Officers "In Dark" On Future Plans

Local SERA officials are awaiting word from State headquarters as to what changes will be made in the SERA staff in connection with the new WPA staff in operation.

Glenn Stout, SERA director in Contra Costa and Alameda counties, yesterday declared that he had no idea of what will be done by the SERA administration.

Stout stated, however, that under the new WPA plan, the SERA will take care of direct relief.

JOHN ALAMEDA COUNTY—Under the WPA plan, Contra Costa county will be joined with Alameda county and it is quite possible, it was said, that the county SERA will be merged with Alameda county, also.

Alameda-Solano county has been attached to the SERA county for WPA projects and 15 administrative employees, who have been working from the Richmond offices of the SERA have been transferred to Vallejo where offices have been opened. These 15 employees will direct projects in Solano county and will report to Sacramento county head office.

On Tuesday night a farewell party for the 15 workers was held at Alameda Park. SERA administrative officials and employees attended the affair. There were dancing and refreshments.

A proposal has been made that Contra Costa county WPA office be established at Martinez. It is possible that the engineering department and the project supervisor will be transferred from the local SERA offices to Martinez if the plan is carried out.

REDUCE OFFICE STAFF—With the transfer of Solano county administrative officials to Vallejo and the probable transfer of engineering and project officials from the local SERA offices, local office staff will be greatly reduced here. The SERA offices at Richmond have been occupying the ground floor of the old tolling building for almost a year.

Whether these offices will be closed and a smaller office building will be rented, could not be learned yesterday.

No announcements have been made as to any changes in SERA.

Torres Is On Hunger Strike Again

MARTINEZ, Aug. 7.—Ending a hunger strike eight days ago, after he had started the "strike" on July 12, Anacleto Torres, 33-year old Mexican section hand today was "on strike" again.

This afternoon Dr. W. E. Edmeades was called to the county hospital to examine Torres. For the past eight days Torres has been eating heartily but he refused to eat last evening and again today.

Torres is charged with murdering Arco Cabrera, 30, a Port Costa section hand by shooting him twice and striking him on the head with an axe.

KILLED BY SPIDER

KING FAILS TO PUT UP ANY FIGHT

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—UP—In one of the shortest heavyweight fights in history, Joe Louis, dead-end Negro from Detroit, scored a technical knockout over King, the husky of Chicago, in the first round of a scheduled 10 round bout here tonight. The time was 20 minutes 21 seconds of the first round. A crowd of about 20,000, many of whom had traveled hundreds of miles for the fight, was disappointed by its brevity.

Levin rested on one knee while the time-keeper tolled the count of three. After another 30 seconds of cautious mulling, Louis, flashed over another right to the jaw which traveled not more than six inches but which dropped the terrified Kingfish for the count of four.

LOUIS DISGUSTED—Louis usually the dead pan, could not help but display a feeling of contempt for the Chicago Jewfish who had quit all pretense of fighting and after a gesture of disgust he again banged over with another murderous right to the jaw and the voiceless Kingfish sat dazed on the lower strand of the rope in a neutral corner.

The referee, Norman McGarvey, waved Louis to the opposite corner in a signal of awarding the technical kayo.

For all that the bout lasted, less than three minutes of the first round, the huge crowd (Continued on page 2)

Earthquakes In Colombia Kill Twenty

BOGOTA, Colombia, Aug. 7.—UP—Two strong earthquakes rocked this high Andean city early today while most of the population was still asleep, causing inestimable damage and killing at least 20 persons.

Pacha, capital of the Southwest Department of Narino, has a population of approximately 56,000. The region is mountainous and earthquakes are frequent.

Practically isolated from the rest of Colombia until the 1920s, construction of military road through Narino to the Peruvian frontier opened the department to communication with the north.

Chief industries are gold mining and coffee growing.

REGISTER OF CASES

BOGOTA, Colombia, Aug. 7.—UP—The telephone of the San Rafael police station registered a strong earthquake today, calculated about 121 miles south of Bogota, corresponding to the city of Pacho, a partment of Narino.

The shock was the strongest registered in 12 years.

COURT FINDS TWO WOMEN ARE GUILTY

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—UP—Mrs. Blanche Dunkel and Mrs. Evelyn Smith, partners in the "torso murder" of Ervin Lang, were convicted today by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington after a jury-waived trial.

Sentence will be tomorrow, the court announced.

Mrs. Dunkel, the bob-haired grandmother whose confession admitted intimate relations with the widowed son-in-law whose murderer she hired, and Mrs. Smith, faded former burlesque dancer, testified in their own defense.

WAS DRUGGED—Blanche hounded me so much," Mrs. Smith testified, "that I thought I'd go screw. Finally I did the job for her, more as a favor than anything else."

Lang was drugged with highballs in the Smith apartment, his body sawed apart with a hacksaw and the torso dumped in a swamp near Hammond, Ind. The legs were discarded in a trunk a few miles away.

ACCUSE EACH OTHER—Each woman accused the other from the witness stand.

"Evelyn made it so simple to me I thought he would just disappear," the haggard grandmother related. "I wanted him to die though, and I planned to draw $500 from the safety deposit box we had jointly to make it look (Continued on Page 8)

Wrecking Jail Proves Costly In El Cerrito

Wrecking jails may come under the classification of a good, clean sport, but it's an expensive one at that.

Mrs. Norah Hansen, of Oakland, found that out last evening when she appeared before Police Judge A. G. Thompson of El Cerrito. The jurist first "soaked" her $10 for being intoxicated and then "cracked down" upon her with a $20 fine for wrecking the brig.

Mrs. Hansen said she didn't have enough cash to pay the fine but she called a male friend in San Francisco, who appeared on the scene a few hours later with the necessary thirty bucks.

Mrs. Hansen was arrested on the morning of July 21 as she allegedly stood in front of a church in El Cerrito and alared her opinion, mostly profane, of her husband.

Taken to the city jail she allegedly tore up two mattresses, stripped off her clothing and attempted to commit suicide.

As a parting shot, Mrs. Hansen told the court last night that she was going to call the health department because she says the El Cerrito jail is unsanitary.

The DAILY WASHINGTON
MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Wise-ness of the Democratic National Committee, who once put the sickle under Herbert Hoover, are worried about a chain letter they fear may help to do the same for Franklin Roosevelt.

It consists chiefly of excerpts from Roosevelt speeches and started originally in the Middle West. At the bottom of the letter is carried the notation: "Why not make copies of this and send it to ten others and ask them to do likewise?"

The extent to which a letter like this may travel is limitless and it is what causes Democratic National Committee worry. One astute respondent wrote to the committee asking whether the quotations from the Roosevelt speeches were accurate, and that he would wait for a reply before sending out copies of the letter.

He never got an answer. Here is the letter: "I accuse the present administration of being the greatest spending administration in peace time, in all our history one which has piled bureau on bureau commission on commission, and has failed to anticipate the dire needs of reduced earning power of the people."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking at Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 29, 1922: "I regard reduction in Federal spending as one of the most important issues of this campaign. In my opinion, it is the most direct and effective contribution that the government can make to business."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19, 1922: "Expenditures of Government from Washington to Wilson 1789 to 1912, total of 124 years—$21,214,500. Expenditures of Roosevelt Administration as estimated by the President, actual 1923, and estimated 1935 and 1936, total of 3 years—$24,296,533,000."

"Remember well that attitude and method, the way we do things, not just the way we say things, is nearly always the measure of our sincerity." Franklin D. Roosevelt, speech at Butte, Mont., Sept. 15, 1932.

The widely publicized report that Edg. Jim Farley would seek the scalp of Senator Phil Borah when he comes up for re-election next year brought the Idahoan many expressions of support from Senate colleagues.

One of the most enthusiastic sympathizers was New York's Democratic Royal S. Cleveland. He rushed up to Borah, wrung his hand and exclaimed: "Bill, you haven't a thing to worry about now. Farley was against me when I ran last year, and his opposition was one of the biggest factors in my reelection."

KNOX-CONSPIRACY It looks as if Frank Knox, assistant Republican publisher of The Chicago Daily News, already has launched a full-blown drive to garner delegates for the Republican National convention next June.

That is the interpretation Republican leaders on Capitol Hill place on the mysterious comings and goings of "Tanglefoot" Bob Lucas, who was executive director of the Republican National Committee under Hoover.

The smooth-talking Kentuckian had been politically quiescent for several years, but last Spring he suddenly began to hang about on the Knox bandwagon.

At the Springfield, Ill., "grass-roots" gathering he told friends that since 1920 he had never failed to pick the successful Republican nominee and he was convinced Knox would capture the prize in '36.

NEW YORK
INSIDE OUT
By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—There was an amusing background to the legal by-play which threatened to kick Mayor LaGuardia out of office.

An obscure Brooklyn real estate owner named Benn E. Aaron several weeks ago brought a taxpayer's suit to oust the Mayor on the grounds that he violated the law by accepting an appointment on President Roosevelt's Advisory Committee of the Work-Relief Fund.

The Mayor paid little attention to the move when it was brought for decision before Judge Cullilo of the Supreme Court, but Tammany Hall was licking its chops in anticipation of a possible return to power.

Just before Judge Cullilo handed down his adverse decision, Tammany leaders tentatively agreed on a man to run for Mayor next November. There was also talk about the redistribution of jobs to Tammany men, for the Mayor's removal would have given the Tiger control of the Board of Estimate and enabled it to oust the Tammany forces in the city government.

Leaders of Tammany officially disclaimed all responsibility for the suit, but there are many who insist that they don't take starvation diets lying down.

BALALAIKAS—Sera Baliet, round Russian creator of the "Chaive Souk" will bring a new edition of the famous comic on Broadway in September. The first appearance of the amazing Russian troupe took the town by storm a dozen years ago. After the roof of the old Century theater the strains of "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers."

DANGEROUS LANDINGS
AUTHOR OF "CAPTIVE GODDESS"

When Linda Marshall, famous American girl flier on a round-the-world solo flight, disappears over the Pacific, Tommy Drew, noted American aviator and adventurer who is in love with her, receives the news in London and determines to fly out to the East to search for her. He has secret knowledge that her disappearance was deliberately planned and that it is connected in some mysterious way with Linda's uncle, Copernicus Marshall, a scientist who is supposed to have been lost on an expedition somewhere in the Pacific shortly after the Spanish-American War.

Before Tommy takes off from London, Angus Kirkbrae, Vice-Marshal of the Royal Air Force, reveals that he is in on the secret of Linda's disappearance, promises Tommy aid, and tells him to look up a Patrick Flane in Hong Kong.

'Sorrel & Son' At Richmond Today

The talkie version of "Sorrell and Son," Warwick Deeping's beautiful story of a father's love and sacrifice, comes to the Richmond theater today for a two day run.

H. B. Warner recreates the role of Captain Stephen Sorrell who, deserted by his wife, takes mental and back-breaking labor to make his small son Kit's life a better thing than his own. The father's years of unceasing toil enable the son to realize his ambition and become a surgeon, while the father reaps only broken health and the joy of seeing the son he loves happy and successful in work and in love.

Handsome Hugh Williams, Hollywood's exciting new screen "find" plays Kit, as a man, while Peter Penrose, a capable and popular English child actor, has the part of Kit as a boy.

Lydia Hayward, who was responsible for the very successful screen version of Noel Coward's musical "Bitter Sweet," adapted "Sorrell and Son" to the talking screen for British and Dominions in close association with the author.

The Smartest Place in the East Bay

He sat having his eleven-thirty beer at the Hong Kong Hotel one morning. A tourist ship was in, and the place was alive with camera-laden men in unaccustomed whites, and women in clothes inappropriate to the climate carrying bulging parcels from the ship's baggage.

Bah! Sitting here with his hands tied. But he had no choice but to wait. Buddy's return from patrol was to attempt to fly to Crab Island without the official help that Buddy could give would be only a waste of time. The delay was infuriating. He was in a black mood.

Suddenly, he became aware that a group of young men at a nearby table were looking at him curiously. One was looking toward Tommy. Then as quickly as six-foot-three of lean sprawling manhood could untangle from table and chairs, he strode forward.

"TOMMY DREW! You old fellow! What in the name of everything are you doing out here without my knowing it! Don't tell me the cruise ship brought you. I couldn't hear it!"

It was Tommy's turn to grin. "Jerry Mitchell! As I said, and breathe! Where's the war? No, I didn't come on the cruise ship. I've been here for two ghastly weeks."

It was remarkable what a difference it made in the morning to have some one in Hong Kong you knew! Even the table-boy's aloofness melted as Tommy beckoned for two more beers.

"You blasted idiot," Jerry chided, "why haven't you been over to the club? Buddy told me to keep an eye out for you. He's off on patrol. Let's have a note for you that I was here. Didn't you get it?"

"I got nothing but an icy stare from a clerk over at the field office. And if I'd started calling all the clubs in this man's town, I'd be at it yet. More clubs than there are residents! Tell me Jerry what are you doing out here?"

"Special correspondent for the old man's wire service. Last time I saw you, was the day old Twigtree pinned a medal or a cup on you for that Cairo-Karachi flight. Say, will you ever forget the bling that followed?"

HALF an hour later, Tommy was lounging around Jerry's office while Jerry tapped out his column of dispatches. "Make yourself at home," he had invited. "When I get this off my chest, I'll have the rest of the day."

Tommy was idly glancing through the files of the local papers that he had taken from a rack, when a small headline caught his eye: "Scientist Not Kin to World Flier." The issue was dated several weeks before and the item was obviously one which had appeared at the time that Linda landed in Hong Kong on her flight. It read in part:

Miss Marshall is not related to the eminent American scientist, Dr. Marshall, long a resident of Hong Kong, according to a secretary who spoke for him in his absence. From his island refuge, the scientist, it was revealed, comes from an entirely different family of Marshalls.

Another mystifying thread was now woven into the pattern! Tommy determined that, before the day was ended, he must see this "C Marshall" who thought it important to deny relationship with Linda. Perhaps Jerry would know how to arrange an introduction.

Man Convicted On Girl Charge Is Issued Writ

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7. — UP—Pedro Gonzalez, convicted of an attack on a Los Angeles girl, today was issued a writ of habeas corpus by the California Supreme court. The writ was made returnable in Superior court in Los Angeles August 15.

Gonzalez' petition to the Supreme court set forth that the complaining witness had been forced by threats of two Los Angeles officers to give perjured testimony that resulted in Gonzalez' conviction.

Affidavits said the girl was in the custody of juvenile officer Doyle and Probation Officer Fisher in Los Angeles at the time Gonzalez was arrested.

The appellant's petition asserts that on last July 10, the girl told Anna Zavala, Gonzalez' attorney, that she "was threatened with the loss of her liberty by the two officers if she did not give perjured testimony to convict Gonzalez."

The attorney secured a hearing by a Los Angeles deputy district attorney only by threat of grand jury action, the petition charged.

SAVE COUPLE MARCONED ON VALLEY CLIFF MUSIC 'TRUST' IS SCORED BY COURT'S ORDER

YACHTSMEN, Aug. 7. — UP—King and late today brought Robert, 35, to Lewis Memorial hospital after a daring rescue 2500 feet away. Yacinto Valley on the rough terrain the face of towering Half Dome.

Ed, unmarried late Tuesday on a narrow ledge with Elizabeth Lovner, 28, was suffering from a broken shoulder, possibly broken ribs and loss of blood from a deep head cut, sustained when he fell to a rock ledge on the mountain side.

After a long and perilous struggle, the couple were rescued by a party of hikers and taken to the hospital.

The couple covered all but the last 100 feet of the most dangerous descent of their descent when they suddenly realized that they were stalled, unable to advance or retreat. They carried no special climbing equipment to aid them.

"We decided to remain where we were," he told rescuers this morning. "This rescue which saved her down the mountain, nearly outdistanced that attempting to lower her."

CALLER FOR HELP
"I built a fire and persuaded a call for help. It was awfully cold, as I wore shorts. The near freezing weather was an aid, however, since it kept me from going to sleep."

"It was a great sight to see these rescuers," she said, smiling. "They did wonderful work getting me down. The hunker kept hunking on the edge of Mirror Lake by CCC boys kept our spirits wound rationally well, too."

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 7. — UP—The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, alleged by the State to hold a virtual monopoly on popular music, was enjoined by Superior Judge D. E. Wright today from doing further business in Washington unless contracts are approved by his court.

Radio station and theater members of the society, the Allied Amateurs of the Northwest, were enjoined from aiding the society by payment of fees or contribution of further business.

The court validated present license agreements between the society and radio stations and other members, but ordered that no more payments be made to the society until further order of the court.

Twelve radio stations also were named defendants in the action brought by Attorney General G. W. Hamilton.

Hamilton charged the society "cornered" 85 per cent of all popular compositions and operated an illegal monopoly and trust, fixing prices and limiting production of musical compositions.

The society also discriminated against radio stations owned by newspapers by requiring a larger percentage of their gross revenues, Hamilton charged.

Overfeeding the Baby Is Often the Cause of Eczema Attack

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

WE HAVE talked at length on the fact that diet is the chief cause of eczema in children. It seems wise to discuss the matter of what kinds of food cause the trouble and why. It is difficult for mothers to understand why the food their child is getting may be the cause of his misery.

One often says to me, "Doctor, he is getting the same food he always did and he has had no trouble till now."

That is often true. The child has been able to care for the food for a long time and has gradually become sensitive to it.

He has had too much of it and his digestion has broken down.

Good breast milk may cause eczema. The mother may be sensitive to certain protein foods and may not be aware of it. This irritation is carried to her baby through her milk. She may be sensitive to eggs and affect her child because she eats too many of them.

She drinks a large quantity of milk so that she will have a good supply of her own. Many mothers complain that this breast milk is not rich and creamy, but blue.

That may be a very good provision. Rich breast milk is usually dependent on her diet and her habits. Inactivity and a large amount of rich food load her system with fats. These are passed to her baby, who gains weight rapidly, then shows his inability to take care of it by developing a moist oozing eczema.

Overfeeding Often Cause

Overfeeding is the cause of much of the trouble. Lately, the weight chart has become our fetish and we take great pride in a heavy baby. We are sure that we are doing everything just right. Stuffing the baby to make him heavy is likely to cause him great misery. Overfeeding with rich milk is often responsible for an attack of eczema.

He may have inherited an inability to digest fat. Fat is the last of the food products to leave the stomach and in mixing with the proteins, it may retard their digestion. This permits their absorption into the blood undigested.

Nursing the baby whenever he cries is the cause of much indigestion and all its results. Food enters the stomach, where it is mixed with acid and then passes into the small intestine. First the watery portion, then the carbohydrates (starches and sugars), the proteins (albumen) and then the fat.

The starches and sugars are quickly digested and later the slower portions of the food, proteins and fats. Time must be given for these to digest and be absorbed and the stomach should have some rest. If not, the digestive system becomes overburdened and exhausted, and indigestion results.

It requires about three hours to complete the digestion of a feeding of milk, and for that reason the four hour feeding interval is provided the best. Cow's milk is considered the best baby food after mother's milk, but it is much more acid and contains more fat. It must be weakened and rendered alkaline to be well tolerated by the baby.

Sensitive to Milk

Very often we find that baby is sensitive to milk and it either vomits or suffers from diarrhea or has colic and constipation. Quite likely he breaks out with hives or eczema.

Babies in the country who are given the milk from Guernsey or Jersey cows, famed for their fat production, frequently suffer from eczema. Many children are not able to digest eggs, particularly the white.

The yolk which furnishes iron may be required after the eighth or ninth month, but the white of egg adds too much protein.

Cereals which are a combination of starches, sugars, proteins and minerals may be irritating to an allergic child. Those made from oats and wheat are most often injurious.

It may be as much from overfeeding as from the cereals themselves. When first given cereals, the babies may not have trouble, but they may gradually acquire a sensitivity for them. Cereals should not act as a laxative, but if they cause constipation, we may be sure they will cause harm.

Crackers, bread and butter, cookies, candy, potatoes and bananas can all make trouble if taken to excess. Peas and beans are frequent offenders. Even the lowly spinach or tomatoes, though rich in iron, can start a skin trouble.

Better Way To Clean

Difficulty in cleaning bathtubs and washbasins can be overcome by using a water softener. There are special soaps for softening water among kitchen soaps as well as among soaps for the bath.

Guide to Charm

Go Easy On The Tan For Fall Is Near

By JACQUELINE HUNT

THE August vacationist must pay more attention to keeping her skin soft and free from sunburn than the girl who took her vacation early. Let your skin take on a healthier glow if you wish, but be very cautious about letting it become really brown.

In a few more weeks you will be shopping for new fall clothes and the darker colors make your tanned skin look drab and out of place. Then you will be begging for masks and bleaches that will make your skin soft and fair again. So let me beg you to play safe now and save yourself a lot of work later on.

The girl who will spend her vacation driving about the country in her own car has the hardest struggle to keep herself looking fresh and presentable. But do not let this frighten you if you have a chance to tour! Just pack the right things and take the time to use them right.

It is a good idea to have a small box of skin cream and a small bottle of suntan oil in your car. You will use them before you set out each morning. Blend a paste of the oil and cream and then dust with a face powder that is just a tiny bit darker than that you ordinarily wear. With this protection your skin will remain soft in spite of wind and dust and the sun will tan you ever so gradually and painlessly. Be sure that your neck and arms receive the same treatment.

If you are dusty and your face moist and hot when you stop for lunch, step into the washroom and apply a quick-melting cleansing cream that you should carry along with cleansing tissues in your handbag. Wipe away the cream and use a second application if necessary. Remove this and rinse your skin in water that is as cold as it will run from the tap. Blot your skin thoroughly with another cleansing tissue and renew your make-up.

No matter how tired you are when you stop at night, have a sponge bath or warm tub and cleanse your skin thoroughly before you retire. There is a little traveling case containing a complexion brush and a pretty covered box with a cake of mild, fragrant soap that is a boon for travelers. There is room enough in the little case for a toothbrush, a tube of toothpaste and a bottle each of nail polish and remover.

After the nightly cleansing, apply a small amount of cream, or if your skin feels chapped or flushed from the sun, more of the suntan oil. Leave it on until the skin feels soothed and massage in cold water. A quick body rub with eau de Cologne or rubbing alcohol will ease tired muscles and relax you so you will sleep soundly.

If you want to keep your hands soft and untanned, you will find it advisable to wear gloves. Massage a soothing hand lotion into your hands and arms first, then put on light cotton gloves that will not bother you when you drive.

Dress wisely. Cottons are coolest for driving in the heat, but be sure that you select the non-crushable kind. Creases, necksucker and rep are now made up in pretty tailored styles and they refuse to wilt, no matter how hot the day. Wear your hair in a simple fashion off the neck and forehead and wear comfortable hats that will not blow off with every stray breeze.

The matron element among the smart women wore the Vionnet pastel handkerchiefs, or simple printed dresses of bus cut, with bloused elbow sleeves. These were in flower patterns and were often larger and more widely spaced than last year's patterns.

They were accompanied by large hats, often from Rebourt, and double or triple strand pearl necklaces and earrings. Long suede gloves matching the dress were endorsed, except where black or navy costumes added white gloves. Pale pastels, but no color predominated, although champagne yellow registered.

The Hostess Still Favors Flowing Line

By IRENE VAIL

New York—No matter how romantically inclined one may be to affect period frocks for party wear, bouffancy has no appeal for the stay-at-home woman who delights in the hostess role. She wants to trail around the house in flowing draperies and is insistent that the lines of her robe entwine or hostess gown be graceful and free enough to permit her to lounge as she sees fit.

A model versatile enough to be turned into a gown appropriate for dinner wear in homes other than one's own is a desirable blessing in any disguise.

We are headed for a season of scarf effects—scarfs draping the head and shoulder in the Far East mode and scarfs that do all manner of practical things about one's throat and shoulders. Any report of what is being worn in fashion's high spots, or what is in preparation for the new season, just bristles with favorable comment not only about these charming scarf arrangements but also about cowls and hoods.

Small velvet toques pushed forward, are included, as well as large felt. Some modified side-lit Bregels from Stry were noted, and some derive from the Agnes aureole hats. Practically no back brim, but wide front and sides turned away from the face like aureoles characterize these hats.

The matron element among the smart women wore the Vionnet pastel handkerchiefs, or simple printed dresses of bus cut, with bloused elbow sleeves. These were in flower patterns and were often larger and more widely spaced than last year's patterns.

MODERN WOMEN

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

RATHER than be a henpecked husband most men would choose almost any alternative. Yet there are an amazing number of husbands who easily might qualify for that class. The more henpecked a husband is the less aware of the fact he seems to be. He certainly never mentions it. When one hears a lordly male loudly exclaiming he is henpecked we know perfectly well that he is nothing of the sort. Were he living in abject terror of his wife it is not likely he would so risk incurring her wrath.

Over in Berlin some doctor has found time to make a study of this particular variety of human. He found they are over-sensitive, shy, weak persons prefer to live always in the shadow, and who are so doubtful of their own courage that they must be forced into action. Of the thirty cases studied, seventeen were weaklings and more or less unbalanced, and the rest were either suffering from neurasthenia or were inveterate drunks.

These interesting facts are given in the faint hope of encouraging women who have invariably been blamed for making spineless creatures out of their mates. According to the German findings, these men were born to be henpecked, or at least to be dominated by some stronger character. Perhaps they really like it.

An even more interesting angle on the findings of the German doctor is that it makes women, highly nervous and hysterical to have the whip hand.

Why They're Hysterical

He does not make it clear why this should be so, but he does say: "It is not egotism, a peculiarity of married men, nor their lack of being able to understand their wives' spiritual life which are the causes of these women's hysteria."

Of the thirty husbands whose wives suffered from nervous trouble eight were quite normal, three had suffered from severe illnesses, causing undue strains on their wives, and two were "robust and reckless."

A "robust and reckless" mate might well be calculated to make any woman so inclined hysterical. One gathers that it is not good for the female of the species to lord it over her mate. It has a tendency to throw her off balance. And why not? What woman really cares for a man who is weak and silly enough to be dominated by her? Doormats are useful to wipe one's feet on, but husbands make a very poor substitute. They cease to be of any interest, even as doormats, and are usually kicked about until they disappear, which is a punishment fit and proper for the crime they have committed. For it is a crime for any man to allow himself to be trampled on by his wife or any other human.

How Far To Go

A certain wife of my acquaintance whose husband is invariably referred to as "Belt's husband," made a very revealing remark in my presence. It was to the effect that a wife just had to know how far she could go—how much her husband would stand for," she explained.

There isn't a doubt that many wives operate on this principle. When they find they can "get away with it," no matter what it happens to be, they proceed to do so. It seems then distinctly up to the husband to take what ever stand he feels he must right at the start in order that there may be no mistake about the limits of his tolerance or good nature. Nor does this apply to human relationships, since it unfortunately appears to be a common failing to go as far as one dares without overstepping the line.

There's one chance in a million that a strong-minded man should degenerate into a milksop just because he has married a woman whose desire it is to be boss. If he is a weakling, beginning the chances of ever being anything but a weakling are remote, so he should be grateful to a kind fate for giving him a mate who is capable of being the man he should be. A wife's interests are so identical with those of her husband that it seems perfectly safe to leave affairs in the hands of the more capable of the two.

True, there are shrewish women who can make marriage unendurable for a man of spirit. But I doubt if such women could turn a really strong man into anything as contemptible as a henpecked male.

PRESERVATION OF LIFE THRU FREEZING SEEN

BERKELEY, Aug. 7.—The possibility of indefinite preservation of human bodies by freezing and the revival of life perhaps 1000 or 2000 years after death was seen here today as a potential development of the experiment performed by Dr. Ralph Willard, Hollywood, who received a dead monkey which had been frozen for three days.

Dr. Robert E. Cornish, Berkeley scientist whose experiments in reviving dead dogs attracted national attention last year, envisioned the Willard method as a means of preserving historical data, customs and culture and transferring them in person to civilizations which might develop centuries later.

Dr. Cornish said the Willard method has certain features in common with that which he used last year, but that the objectives of the two scientists are quite different. Dr. Willard has sought to kill certain disease germs by cold, without permanently killing the body, on the theory that certain germs cannot survive at use cold. The opposite theory that certain germs cannot stand even moderate heat has been demonstrated in the use of fever machines to cure advanced venereal cases.

The success of the Willard method, Dr. Cornish pointed out today, lies in the injection of sodium citrate, before freezing, to prevent the destruction of delicate brain cells. The Cornish experiments, on the other hand, have used an injection

S.O. Plot Blast Trial Will Be Ended On Friday

MODESTO, Aug. 7.—UP—After arguments in the trial of eight San Francisco maritime workers accused of complicity in a dynamiting plot near Patterson last April, began in Superior Judge Roy B. Maxey's court this afternoon. Judge Maxey allotted three and a half hours to each side after the defense, in a surprise move this morning, suddenly rested its case. The arguments will end tomorrow. Judge Maxey is expected to give his instructions to the jury Friday morning, placing the case in the hands of the jury before noon.

Rual Stanfield, one of the defendants, was cross-examined today. He was followed on the stand by Mrs. Laura Stone, Portland, Ore., court reporter, who contradicted much of the story told by Arthur Skearer, defense witness, of a waterfront riot in Portland.

Rogers seemed glum and told reporters, "We only just got here," while Post was enthusiastically greeted by old-time pilot friends. "Sure glad to be back," he said. Both declared their departure from Juneau was uncertain and described the trip as "fine."

Post And Rogers Land In Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 7.—UP—After a 750 mile flight from Seattle, requiring eight hours and 11 minutes, Wiley Post and Will Rogers landed on Gastineau channel in a driving rain at 4:33 P.M.

Rogers seemed glum and told reporters, "We only just got here," while Post was enthusiastically greeted by old-time pilot friends. "Sure glad to be back," he said. Both declared their departure from Juneau was uncertain and described the trip as "fine."
